Dear All,

A short update on the current status in Turkey following the military coup attempt and events experienced overnight:

Turkish straits at Bosphorus and Dardanelles are fully operational.

The repair activity in Tuzla area remains unaffected and continues normally.

The country ports operate normally as well, we are not aware of any known abnormalities.

The airports of Istanbul operated since the morning however our latest information is that flights are again massively cancelled, therefore travelling remains not uneventful.

We will revert with further updates.

Kind Regards

Cengiz Iseri
